Multi-Published Author Duo Debuts New Romance Series Examining Grief

Linda Hanna & Deborah Dulworth Release Come Next Winter (Seasons of Change, #1)

WHITE SALMON, Wash., JAN. 9, 2017 — Author duo Linda Hanna and Deborah Dulworth breathe new life into the inspirational romance genre by tackling the subjects of loss and grief in Come Next Winter, book one in SEASONS OF CHANGE.

When unexpected tragedy hits her family, Carol Mason struggles to forge a new life for herself and her sons. Though Vermont has been their home for twenty years, betrayal and misunderstanding force Carol to leave the mountains she loves and return to her hometown of Apache Pointe, Arizona. There she is welcomed by scorching heat, lizards, scorpions, and (gulp) Aunt Penny. While Carol finds a sympathetic friend in her cousin Millie, Aunt Penny's antagonism between Carol and the man seeking to, perhaps, be more than just friends with Carol puts everything on edge yet again. Has God turned a deaf ear just when Carol needs him most?

Come Next Winter cuts right to the core of loss and recovery, and the difficult journey it takes to get from point A to point B. Hanna and Dulworth spin an engaging tale that will resonate with women across the age spectrum, those who have been married and widowed, as well as the struggle of being a life-long single. Humor, wit, and redemption make Come Next Winter an excellent selection for book studies, which are furthermore encouraged with the accompanying study questions at the end.

Come Next Winter kicks off SEASONS OF CHANGE and its collection of unique and encouraging heroines. Look for book 2, Come Next Spring, releasing soon.

Linda Hanna has written magazine articles, devotionals, as well as partnering her skills with businesses, schools, and churches. She's a Christian wife, mother, grandmother and has been active with church related projects since birth. An avid collector of snowmen, she also enjoys a good archeological dig in antique stores. Linda and her husband make their home in central Indiana.

Deborah Dulworth has been a member of ACFW since 2009. Gospel music listener, book-reader and champion chocolate chomper at heart, Debbie has written articles for magazines and devotional material. She's the mother of two adult children. Their youngest was adopted from the Philippines. She lives in central Indiana with their five goldfish, a cockatiel, and has joint custody of her mother's dog. The Debbie and Linda enjoyed leading senior adult fellowship groups for many years and earned the highly coveted title of "Darlings of the District."
