Best-Selling Author Miralee Ferrell Lands A TV Deal

Miralee Ferrell Releases UP TV Film Book Adaptation Runaway Romance

WHITE SALMON, Wash., OCT. 1, 2017 — ECPA best-selling and award-winning author Miralee Ferrell releases the book adaptation of the premiere UP TV Channel contemporary romance movie, Runaway Romance, on November 1, 2017.

Ann Stanway had it all—a starring role in a reality show alongside her adoring boyfriend, and a sparkling future with limitless possibilities. Until the rules changed and the life she'd thought was real no longer existed. Leaving L.A. seems like her only option, and she lands in Kentucky at a quiet Amish Inn—as far removed from her past as possible. With the hint of a fresh start, Ann finds a new friend in the wise innkeeper and maybe even true acceptance for who she really is from handyman, Hunter Lewis. But Ann's secrets threaten to squelch her healing, and Hunter's suspicions grow at every dodged question. Can their new romance withstand the pressure, or will Ann choose to run when Hunter finds out her true history?

Runaway Romance is the first in a series of made-for-television movies produced by ACI and airing on the UP Channel, from inspirational reader favorite, Miralee Ferrell. Readers who enjoy romantic movies, Hollywood stardom stories, and Amish fiction can get a head start on the story by picking up a copy of Runaway Romance releasing November 1, 2017 from Mountain Brook Ink. The film's exact air date is still to be determined, but will be within the first quarter of 2018.

After publishing over twenty novels, Ferrell founded Mountain Brook Ink, a traditional press, with the goal of helping new and multi-published authors alike publish and promote less conventional inspirational novels. Since Mountain Brook Ink's opening in 2014, the company has contracted over 25 authors with several book-to-film options.

Runaway Romance can be ordered in both e-book format via Amazon.com, and paperback format through any online or in-store retailer. Visit miraleeferrell.com or mountainbrookink.com for more new releases from Miralee Ferrell and Mountain Brook Ink.

Miralee Ferrell is the award-winning author of over twenty novels. She and her husband live in the Columbia River Gorge in southern Washington State, where she enjoys horseback riding along the wooded trails and spending time with her grown children.
