Washington Island Romance Series Debuts with Decade-Long Love Story

Annette M. Irby Releases Finding Love in Friday Harbor, Washington (Washington Island Romance, #1)

WHITE SALMON, Wash., AUG 8, 2017 — Multi-published author Annette M. Irby debuts her WASHINGTON ISLAND ROMANCE series with Finding Love in Friday Harbor, Washington, releasing September 1, 2017.

Professor Mikaela Rhoades is a career-driven woman with a passion for marine biology. When her ex-fiancé's father passes away, leaving his family's whale-touring business in financial jeopardy, she spots the perfect opportunity to encourage her students' oceanography research while also helping old family friends. But nothing is ever straight-forward; Hunter Cahill didn't expect the stodgy professor coming to rescue his business to be his ex from over ten years ago. Will they be able to work past feelings of hurt and betrayal to save Cahill Touring? And, more importantly, can they work toward forgiveness?

Finding Love in Friday Harbor, Washington, is the first installment in the new three-book series, WASHINGTON ISLAND ROMANCE as well as the latest addition to Mountain Brook Ink's FINDING LOVE IN...line. Finding Love in Friday Harbor, Washington, is directed at women in their 20s-80s, though anyone with a passion for marine life and an ocean setting will enjoy Irby's newest offering.

Themes include courage in overcoming rejection, forgiveness, and the faith that even the most broken hearts may be reconciled through God's grace and love. Finding Love in Friday Harbor, Washington, is an excellent selection for groups seeking a cool read with affection and substance closing out the warm summer. Book 2, Finding Love on Bainbridge Island, Washington, is set to release Summer 2018.

Annette M. Irby has been writing since her teen years when she sat pounding out stories on a vintage typewriter just for fun. Since then, she's joined Christian writing groups and launched blogs so she could share the joy of writing. At one time, she served in acquisitions for a small press, and she runs her own editing business. She likes to say she's addicted to color as flowers and seascapes inspire her. In her off hours, she enjoys gardening, photography, and music. She lives with her husband and family in the Pacific Northwest.
